

TOPIC: TECHNICAL SOLUTIONS TO INCREASE EFFICIENCY

QUESTION: Could you suggest other types of resources available for this technology?

“There is a website and that’s ExponentCMS.org that’s E-X-P-O-N-E-N-T-C-M-S-dot-O-R-G. There is a forum there where you can ask questions and it’s... that new website’s only been up about six months, and already we have over four hundred postings or threads of people in the general discussions. And at any one time it seems like there’s three or four hundred people that are in the forums looking at things. The community is basically people that have become interested in the system for whatever reason, then decide that they want to contribute back their knowledge and their time to the community to help make the product better. And, there’s a team of programmers that have been working on this for about three months now trying to get all the bugs out. And, they’ve added about twenty new features to the content management system. And so, there’s a very active community that’s involved with that. And that’s probably the main place that you’d want to go.”

JOHN MANSEL-PLYDELL

Education Technologist

Northwest Ohio Computer Association